Has natural shoulders, straight vent in back; sleeves close with five buttons; edges and seams are double stitched. Vest has six buttons, no collar. Trousers are peg.

If you want to be abreast of the times and wear correct clothes, ask us to show you this, the "Savoy," or the "Master," the "Bristol," the "Poole," or the "Row" suit styles.

Every suit contains twenty-six practical features.

Society Brand Clothes are the clothes for the young man whose good taste rebels against frills and fancies on the one hand, and the too conservative effects on the other. He likes the style of Society Brand Clothes because it is smart and dressy-because it is "different yet dignified."

The selling of clothes is to us more than just a business. It is our life's work.

We take just as much pride in fitting a young man in a suit of clothes as an artist takes in painting a masterpiece.

And it is because of this that our clothes look a little better, fit a little better, and are a little better than ordinary clothes.

You're looking for the things that made such women as I. Low wages! Dance halls! Hunger! Cold! They all helped a bit, but they didn't turn the trick themselves. You're all a bunch of hypocrites, afraid to look the thing in the face, and afraid to learn the truth. I don't know any girls who sold themselves for money to buy bread or clothes, but I do know lots of us who hit the road to hell because a lot of blackguards kept hounding us with their rotten attentions. Why don't you make the men be good? All the wages in the world won't help us. Make the men be good, and the girls will be good."

While these comments on the situation continued to pour in, the civic consciousness awakened by the commission bestirred itself in the launchees and private investi gating forces." In some stores numbers of girls approached their employers to demand larger galaries. All were assured that they would be taken care of as soor as something definite has been agreed upon. Several resignations were tendered by girl employees as a result of parental advice.

The illustration herewith represents the new conservative American style in clothes for young men-two button, straight front, 32 inches long in size 36 (3/s-inch longer to each next size). Has natural shoulders, straight vent in back; sleeves close with five buttons; edges and seams are double stitched. Vest has six buttons, no collar. Trousers are peg.

Advanced dressers everywhere who like the American mode best will seek this fashion this year.

If you want to be abreast of the times and wear correct clothes, ask us to show you this, the "Savoy," or the "Master," the "Bristol," the "Poole," or the "Row" suit styles.

Every suit contains twenty-six practical features.

Society Brand Clothes are the clothes for the young man whose good taste rebels against frills and fancies on the one hand, and the too conservative effects on the other. He likes the style of Society Brand Clothes because it is smart and dressy-because it is "different yet dignified."

The selling of clothes is to us more than just a business. It is our life's work.

We take just as much pride in fitting a young man in a suit of clothes as an artist takes in painting a masterpiece.

And it is because of this that our clothes look a little better, fit a little better, and are a little better than ordinary clothes.
